JOURNAL 2

1. Please do read and reflect on this Scriptural Reading: The Revelation to Samuel (1 Samuel 3: 1-18).
2. Read:

The Biblical passage from 1 Samuel 3: 1-21 has been studied from the perspective of the call. A deeper analysis reveals that an important theme is discernment. This journal paper focuses on the theme of discernment and the answer to the divine call. The topic of discernment is a particularly current theme, especially in your preparation for the On the Job Training (OJT)/ internship.

Dealing with the biblical text (1 Samuel 3: 1-2) will highlight the elements that render Samuel a symbol of discernment. With this symbolic character and an emphasis on the CICM core values and the universal values of Integrity, Compassion, and Service, you will be inspired to face the challenges along the way. This will lead to the realization of a lived spirituality and applying the same to where you will emerge. Like Samuel, the human being needs to listen, so you as a student need to listen, discern, and act.

3. Please do Reflect

Entering the last year of your formal education to become a future worker in the Accounting, Business, Management, Hotel and Tourism Industry, Engineering, Architecture, Information Technology or Technical field, you become excited. But fears and uncertainties also often arise. Be not afraid is a statement of assurance that God will always be with you wherever you go. You are under formation to become a practitioner in the Accounting, Business, Management, Hotel and Tourism Industry, Engineering, Architecture, Information Technology or Technical field. As you journey towards a professional life, you need to stop and reflect; as you discern, be guided with the following questions:

1. Where are you now in relation to your academic journey towards a professional life?
2. Are you ready for the professional life?
3. What do you consider as your greatest fear? Why?
